The Christnes Tree-Sweets for the Sweet water Children-Two Marriages.

Correspondence of the Carette. Sweetwater, December 26.—Christ-mas has come and gone, and the im-portant events of the season thus far are as follows:

A Christmas tree of immense proportions at the court house, which contained many articles of great value and beauty. A contribution was raised sufficient to purchase one round of candy each for every child in Sweet-water, consequently the children turned out on masse. There were some mars expressed as to the strength of the court house in sustaining the weight of the immense concourse of people were in the concourse of weight of the immense concourse of people who were in attendance, but the court room was illed to its utmost capacity with people to the number of at least 1,200, without any effect whatever on the building.

If firing anvils, six-shooters and freworks of all kinds is any indication of enthusiasm over the anniversary of the birth of our Eaviour, then the people of Sweetwater evidently exhibit more religious seal to the source hibit more religious zeal to the square inch than any community in Texas. Mr. R. L. McCaully and Miss Dore Neblett, sister of our merchant prince. Mr. Jesse Neblett, were married on the evening of the 27th inst. Rev John Bradford of the Christian shareh officiating. The groom is one of the rising young nen of our community.

He is one of the firm of Thomas, Trainnell & Co., bankers, and his lovely bride is one of the fairest of Sweetwater's many charming daughsweetwater's many coarming daugatiers.

Rev. John Bradford, accompanied by Mr. R. A. Ragiand and Mamie Douthit, made a flying trip to Weatherford last week, the nature of which was something of a mystery entil the return of the party, when the many friends of Mr. Bradford were surprised to learn that he had returned accompanied by a charming bride, who reigned a belle in our aister city of Weatherford.

Ornamental Woods of Oregon.

(Postland Oregonian A San Francisco paper notes the admin departure from that port of a ship destined for Europs loaded with redwood and other finishing timbers of California growth. The shipment is in the nature of an experiment, but it is stated that the conditions of cost, transport and market have been carefully studied and that there is no depart of the and the third that there is no depart of the and the third that there is no depart of the and the third that there is no depart of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the case of the third that the conditions of the case of the ca ed that the conditions of cost, transport and market have been carefully studied and that there is no doubt of the suc-cess of the enterprise, and it is pre-dicted that other ships and many of them will follow. It is a fact well known that Oregon produces a greater variety and much finer woods than California. The Port Orford cedar is of the same content. California. The Port Orion center is of the same general character, but in every particular respect a better timber than the redwood. Its color is better for panel and other fine work, and its grain is more distinct. We have a dozen or a score of other fine woods, but the best and most beautiful of all is the myrtle waich grows along the streams of the waich grows along the streams of the southern coast. The beauty of this wood is beyond comparison. It is nearly as dark as black wainut, mottled with mahogany-colored streaks, is hard and susceptible of a perfect polish, and retains its toughness when sawed into the thinnest veneering. There is no ornamental timber, except rosewood, equal to if. Even the carly and bird's-eye maple, so much admited, is dingy and cheap looking beside it, and the famous redwood is as inferior as ordinary cedar is to makegany. If this beautiful timber were once introduced in the East or in Europe we believe that it would soon be in great demand. It grows in forets in the demand. It grows in forets in the counties of Coos, Curry and Donglas, easily accessible to the ocean.

A Venerable Priest.

Pitsburg, December 31.—Right Rev. Boniface Wilmer celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance Into the Benedictine order at St. Vincent's college to-day. The coromony, which included conferring the degree of archabbot of America, the first ever bestowed in this country, was participated in by bishops from all parts of the United States.

THE PROPLE TO BLAME.

Brenham Banner: Is it the duty of the governor to go round and personally talk to every recalcitrant juror and with whip and spur make him do his duty? Such a proceeding k in the very nature of the case an impossibility; then why blame the governor for something that is entirely beyond his personal control? There is just so and reason in all things, and there is certainly neither justles or reason in blaming the governor for something that is beyond his control. The people of the sections of country where law-lessness prevails are themselves re-to do with punishing crime, or inflicting punishment, as the proprietors of the News. The law affixes the punishment, and if it is not commensurate with the crime, the law-making and not the executive power is responsible. The people elect their sheriffs and have the power of impeaching them. Therefore if incompetent or corrupt sheriffs fail to apprehend violaturs of the law, the people, and not the executive, are responsible. Juries of citzens sit upon the guilt or innocence of the offenders, and if guilty men are turned loose it is the citizen, and not the executive, some cause or provocation.

would blow Ireland sky-high and split his party in two; but, hevertheless, it is opposed to doing Governor Ireland willful injustice. He had, no more power, by virtue of his constitutional powers, to arrest fence-cutting then the News' has ability to obtain deep water on Galveston bar with a stove shovel and editorial datalence.

A HAPPY "ORGAN." Salphur Springs Gazette: Since It appears that the Democrats will sweep everything before them in 1884, the Galveston News is a leading (?) Democratic paper, and is happier than it has been since the days when Radical plunderers held high carnival at Austin and passed $6,000,000 subsidy railroad bills. Five thousand dollars, we

W. Q. HATEMAN. believe, was its price for advocating the passage of one of these railroad bills during that dark period in Texas

COVERNOR IRELAND.

What the Papers Say of his Responsibility for Feace-Cutting,

And the Uncalled-for Assault of the Galveston News on Him and his Party.

LAY IT TO THE COMET.

Gainesville Register: The Galveston News fixes the responsibility for the present lawlessness in Texas on the state administration. There would be just as much sense in bleming the existence of pains in a man's stomach after he had eaten a Christmas dinner to the comet in the heavens.

HAS DONE ALL IN HIS POWER.

"MANUPACTURINO" SENTIMENT.

Dalias Times: And the Dalias correspondent of the News says the "Increased Governor Ireland on the fence-cutting question is the subject of much unfavorable comment here." As the Times assaulty furnishes the correspondent with the events of the day, we can't for the life of us account for this wonderful energy in manufacturing this item. We have no hesitancy in declaring that Dalias has never commented on Governor Ireland's course in the fence-cutting or any other troubles, and that the News correspondent never heard of the aforesaid "inertia" till he saw an editorial in his paper on the subject. If the News proposes to manufacture sentiment against Irelan t by such claptrap as this, it had better go to work in some part of the country where no daily papers are published.

FAHS TO SHOW PROOF.

San Antonio Express: The Galveston News continues to abuse Gov. Ireland for neglect of duty, but signally "MANUFACTURING" SENTIMENT.

after he had exten a Christmas dinner to the comet in the heavens.

HAS DONE ALL IN HIS POWER.

McKinney Enquirer: Gov. Ireland has been censured by a portion of the Texas press for his course in the fence-cutting business. It does seem to us that he has done and is doing all in his power to check this species of law-lessness, while some of those who censure him can lay no claim to even a destination of the law for redress. If the lessness, while some of those who censure him can lay no claim to even a demunclation of the crime. Let every good citizen interest himself in sustaining the governor, and all other officers, in the rigid enforcement of the laws, and not only fence-cutting, but other species of crime will be greatly decreased. The efforts of the governor in this emergency can but meet the hearty appropriation of every law-abiding citizens.

By a grievance and the law for redress. If the governor were to go beyond the statutes to suppress fence-cutting lie would be promptly informed that two wrongs do not make a right. We know that methate become possessed of large bodies of land under a law that prohibits the sale of only a limited quantity to one person. The governor knows this law has been evaded, but it as powerless to act as he is powerless to take steplege a grievance and the News refers them to the law for redress. If the has been evaded, but it as power'ess to act as he is powerless to take steps against the fence-outers without to ing called upon in the manner the has prescribes. Why does the News no charge the governor with impotency because the land laws have been evaded?

blanding the governor for something that is beyond his control. The people of the sections of country where law-spansible for hit they should insist upon the civil officers design their full dely. If grand juries fail to indict and the course to try at l convict officers the vovernor, by no means to blame, but that such a condition of affeire should exist is certainly to be deplored. All governments derive their power from the people, and in the present exigency it is with the people themselves to have the law enforced. If a law is unpopular and lacks the moral support of a people or community, it is impossible to enforce it.

The "NEWS" AND GOVERNOR HILL INC. The whole it is also bears a striking resemblance to the attack made upon Governor Coke, by the same paper and its satelities, on account of haviessness gluring his aim instration. Both of these attacks are about on a par, in justice, to the respective chief executives and exhib-
